WARREN KIWANIANS SUPPORT NEW SCHOLARSHIP

KIWANIANS AND THEIR WIVES approved with vigorous applause each portion of the program which was presented in Beatty cafeteria on Thursday evening, May 26. Here, Rodney Hampson, David Lopez, Maxine Boyd, and Chuck Eaton raised the roof with a trombone quartet. The amateur production was of the best quality and indicated the extent which television has effected high school vocalists, dancers, and musicians.

The scholarship venture, new this year, was suggested by Joseph Passaro, Warren high school principal, as tangible evidence of the Society's activities. A committee of National Honor Society members and the faculty will make the final choice from the applications received. The year's accumulation, which will increase if other organizations follow the Kiwanians' lead, will aid in the selectee's education.

NO GLAMOUR - JUST WORK. This could hardly be included as one of the looked-forward-to activities of senior week. The girls catered for the Kiwanis' ladies night dinner and cleared the tables before the program was presented by other members of the National Honor Society. Here they are pictured as they partook of a hurried (and delicious) snack between duties. Their sacrifices helped the Society to raise approximately $100 for a scholarship.

RUSSELL GRADUATES TWENTY-FOUR. Commencement exercises for eighth grade students of the community of Russell who are qualified to enter Northern Area joint high school next year, were held in the Russell Methodist church on Friday evening, May 27. The class chose "Be Always Ready" for its motto, the yellow rose as its flower, and scarlet red and white for colors.

Father's Day Is June 19

F is for the fine things he always did for us.
A is for the Acts of kindness he always did.
T is for the Tell Tales he was always telling.
H is for his Heart which is good as gold.
E is for his Eyes that are always bright and shining.
R is Right, he always is at every turn.

Don't forget Him. A box of Hankies, a pair of Socks, A Necktie, A Sport Shirt, A White Shirt, A Straw Hat. Just some little thing so that He knows you think of Him.

Pentagon Troubles

By Doris Fleeson

WASHINGTON. -- The initiative for the decision not to reappoint Admiral Carney as Chief of Naval Operations and to replace him with Rear Admiral Burke came from Navy Secretary Thomas. The story is illustrative of rifts within the Pentagon of which more will most certainly be heard.

Weeks ago Secretary Thomas confided to friends that his CNO was running the Navy to suit himself. Thomas complained that his own ideas were being ignored and said he would not reappoint Carney.

The Secretary indicated that his peevishness extended to other senior Admirals. He said he was looking among the younger officers for Carney's successor and mentioned that Arleigh Burke looked good. It was suggested to him that while Burke was a brilliant officer, he was 93 on the totem pole of line officers and only 53 years old so he could wait. Among his seniors, it was argued, were many who could do a distinguished job.

What attention Thomas paid to that advice is now apparent. He was helped by several factors.

The President was angry with Carney for having, though inadvertently, become the herald of a war scare in the Formosa Straits while the President was talking peace.

The President, who was only a lieutenant colonel when General Marshall reached down many numbers to start him on his meteoric World War II rise, naturally thinks well of such tactics. It is not perhaps well known that, unlike his predecessors, the President has chosen men of junior rank for his Army, Navy and Air Force aides. They are Col. Schulz, Army; Commander Beach; Navy, and Lt. Col. Draper, Air Force. Nor has he been promoting them.

The Chrysler 300

America's Greatest Performing Motor Car

The Chrysler 300 — a platinum colored beauty of class and distinction — with the speed of the wind — the maneuverability of a polo pony — the power to pass on the road safely — and an all-around performance quite unlike anything you will find available either here in America or abroad.

The Chrysler 300 was designed and built by popular demand for the thousands of automobile enthusiasts and sportsmen who want a car with the famous modified Chrysler FirePower engine that established new records at Le Mans, Watkins Glen, and other famous road races — a car with a contemporary look of style and smartness — a car with the feel, the response, and the road-hugging look of European sports cars — and one that would reflect the discriminating good taste of the owner.

The 300 horsepower modified FirePower V-8 Engine has the power that confidently assures boundless pep and performance. The modifications on this great engine include two four-barrel carburetors, a full-race camshaft and rocker-arm valve adjustment.

The Chrysler 300 has a special spring suspension that gives a controlled ride, and heavy duty shock absorbers that prevent bottoming on rough roads. There is also a dual exhaust system, power brakes, PowerFlite fully automatic transmission, and Chrysler center-arm steering mechanism.

Generally speaking, too, the President has been willing to pursue a harder course with his former Pentagon associates than with the wealthy civilians he brought in for his Cabinet and Little Cabinet. He has still to admit that any of the latter have made a mistake but he has not hesitated to reshuffle the military. Their private joke about it is that, like Roosevelt, Eisenhower is a traitor to his class.

How much ground Secretary Thomas will gain by his maneuver remains to be seen. Arleigh Burke is a great fighting man with a puckish Irish humour. Thomas, incidentally, has no humour at all but Burke has already said that he never served with Eisenhower nor played golf with him, either. He will learn that such jokes are not appreciated by Republican strategists building the Indispensable Man legend for next year.

Burke's nicknames show that he is all-Navy. In wartime he was "31-knot Burke" in reference to the boiler-bursting speed at which he drove his destroyers against the Japanese. Since 1949 he has been "Op. 23 Burke," in recognition that his Navy Operation 23 spearheaded the admirals' revolt against the Air Force.

The efforts of civilian secretaries to avoid snow jobs by the services did not begin with Secretary Thomas. The truth is that the only Secretary of the Navy who ever permanently succeeded in putting over his own policy in spite of last ditch opposition from the admirals was the late Josephus Daniels. He dried up the Navy. This was good or bad depending on your point of view but Daniels has always gotten credit for no mean feat.

Sooner or later Congress is going to have to take a hand in the question of how the Wilson system of innumerable vice-presidents, a la General Motors, is working, anyway. There are now 30 men in the Pentagon — or seven and one-half golf foursomes — with the MIGHTY SHARP. The new Warren drum corps looked greatly improved when it spanked along at a lively pace for the Memorial Day parade, despite heavy rain. Here they hustle back to the Legion home to get rid of those soaked uniforms and to warm up a bit.

LOYAL TO THE END. With the Memorial Day parade over, this group of Girl Scouts, who went the full route despite a downpour, march to their disbanding point. The parade was one of Warren's best of this kind, with cold rain drops spurring the marchers into a lively pace.

Former Warren Officer Instantly Killed

Edgar Paul Leonard, age 25, former Warren policeman, was instantly killed at 11:15 last evening when his car failed to make a curve on the three-lane north of Warren near the Dairy Queen. He suffered a broken neck and a fractured skull.

Leonard was the son of Mrs. Robert James, of 1010 Fourth ave. He was a member of the Pennsylvania State Police and had been stationed at Butler since completing his schooling at Hershey on April 1.

He served as a paratrooper in the Korean war and was advanced to the rank of corporal.

Leonard's 1947 Plymouth car went through a guard rail and ended up on its nose in a five-foot ditch with the driver pinned in the wreckage. He was traveling south.

FINAL TRIBUTE was paid to the teachers of South Street school by members of the PTA in a dinner-meeting held in the Glade twp. fire hall on Wednesday evening of this week. Five of the eight instructors will be leaving the school at the close of this term as a result of the school directors' decision to move the upper three elementary classes to Jefferson school at the beginning of next term. The ones completing their services are: Mrs. Kyofski, Mrs. Duff, Mr. Connors, Miss Anderson, and Miss Knapp.

Canker Worms Infest Warren

County Soil, according to a discovery made by O. C. Tritt, Warren county agent. To control the pests, do one of the following: FOR SPRAYING ON A LARGE SCALE use two pounds of 50% DDT to 100 gallons of water. FOR SPRAYING ON A SMALL SCALE use three or four tablespoons of 50% DDT to one gallon of water. The same formulas are effective for destroying tent caterpillars, web worms, measuring worms, and cutworms.

SAVE YOUR OWN LIFE

There is a kind of accident which causes three times as many deaths each year as does polio. From five to seven thousand people drown in this nation every year, and a big share of them lose their lives for only one reason. They cannot swim.

The prevention is so easily obtained that it is astonishing that all parents do not insist that their children learn how to swim. And while they are so progressively coming to such a sound conclusion, how about dad and mother. They can learn, too!

Classes for all ages are available at the Warren YMCA, with the summer schedule starting next Wednesday. And this summer for the first time there will be two swims a week for the girls, Tuesday and Thursday. The 8 to 11 beginners will learn from one to two. Then those from 8 to 11 who have learned will swim from two to three. The 12 to 17 year girls will swim from three to four, and the women from four to five.

Boy classes will be Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, from one to two for beginners, two to three for

Season's TV Baseball in Full Swing

WITH this year's baseball season well under way and major league teams and stars shaping up for the road to the pennant, Saturday afternoon baseball on WBEN has become a viewing habit with thousands.

On Saturday afternoon, June 4, at 2:25 o'clock, the vastly-improved Chicago White Sox play host to the power-laden New York Yankees at Comiskey Park in Chicago with "Dizzy" Dean and his partner, Buddy Blattner, describing the play-by-play.

The TV baseball schedule for the balance of the season follows:

June 11—Yankees vs. Indians, 1:55

Most everybody's happy on a honeymoon! But it looks like this couple will STAY that way. Why? Well, for one thing, they know that SAVING makes the difference between wishing and having. Already they've started an account in this bank. They're all set on a program of systematic savings that will build solidly for their future happiness . . . together. Why not write your own "success story" in the pages of your savings account book?

Television and Radio

By John Crosby

Now It's the Kids' Turn

Well, it's been a long time since that old radio program, "Pot O' Gold" focused attention on the telephone as an instrument of entertainment. That was the first program where they called you at home and thrust money on the defenseless citizenry. In case there are any historians among you, it was Ben Grauer who wielded that telephone, a notable first.

The give-away craze had its day, which is by no means over what with "$64,000 Question" coming up, has reached its final apex or just possibly its nadir on the Paul Winchell show where they are now conducting a telephone give-away for children. Just try and get the children out of the house of a Saturday morning once the word gets around!

Mr. Winchell and his dummy, Jerry Mahoney, invite the moppets at home — yours and mine — to write their names, ages and telephone numbers on cards and mail them in.

"Stay right at your T. V. set," says Jerry.

"Because we may be calling you," concludes Mr. Winchell.

Now, that's a fine come-on! I can just hear thousands of children yelping: "Get off that phone, ma! Back to the kitchen with you! He may be calling me!" We haven't got enough to put up with from the little such-and-such's — now we gotta lay off the telephone Saturday morning. The Winchell gimmick is called a treasure hunt and it follows the usual give-away pattern, considerably simplified so as not to overtax the small, undeveloped skulls which comprise Mr. Winchell's audience. The treasure, he tells them, is "in a two-colored basket in a public building in a famous southern state — and listen carefully to the clues." Milton de Lugg's orchestra then plays a bit from "Atisket a-tasket" (a green and yellow basket), "Schooldays" and "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny."

Presently, Mr. Winchell and his dummy had a youngster named Bobby on the phone who correctly surmised that the treasure was in a green and yellow basket in a schoolhouse in Virginia. "You're absolutely correct and congratulations, Bobby," shouted Winchell while the youngsters in the studio audience burst into tumultuous applause. And Bobby was informed he'd get a barrelful of loot, "a camera, a sewing machine (What's he going to do with that, for heaven sakes?), a puppy" (with the year's supply of dog food, naturally), and heaven knows what else. The program ends with Winchell and Mahoney exhorting those children who haven't sent in cards to get busy and do so because "maybe next week we'll call you." I expect thousands of them complied.

When I was a kid, we used to go on treasure hunts but we got out of the house; we didn't hover over a telephone. The effect on kids of this sort of thing is, I think, altogether deplorable. Day after day, the radio and the television are nagging at our kids to acquire more things. The acquisitive instinct is in all children but it's certainly more highly developed here than anywhere. This is the land of plenty all right, but the idea that the accumulation of material things is the most important thing in life is a terrible thing to teach a child. If there has to be a telephone lottery conducted on television, let it be for the adults. It's bad enough for them; it is inexcusable for children.

Apart from this latest gimmick, the Winchell show is a pretty good children's program. There are songs and simple-minded but harmless humor and a general air of good nature about it. Winchell has a bunch of dummies beside Jerry — notable Knucklehead and a little mouse dummy. From time to time the dummies even attempt to push a little natural history into the heads of our young by singing little songs about nature: "The caterpillar and cocoon are funny looking things. But from them come the butterfly with bright and shiny wings."

I just wish they'd cut the loot out of the show and concentrate on the songs. Also, there are far too many commercials on that show.

Observations

By Bob Walsh

Partial Parking Solution

The current effort to amend the Warren zoning law so that exceptions can be made to allow off-street parking lots in limited areas is the first feeble step toward what could be a solution to much of Warren's parking problem. Obviously the business area is not going to park any more cars, unless someone wants to tear down a building or two for that purpose. Judging by some of the prices wanted for antique structures that border on the slum side, this won't happen tomorrow.

This leaves the fringe areas to the business section, and if there is to be a constant battle put up against the use of empty lots for parking cars, the struggle is going to be a long one. We fail to see why there should be opposition to off-street parking lots that are to be used by specific groups.

The Fourth ave. situation is typical. The Elks already have their club on this street. And the members will park their cars in that area. Why should the neighbors object to their being taken off the street and parked in a lot bordering the club?

The New Process owns property that stretches from Third to Fourth. If the New Process employees cannot find parking off the streets they obviously will use Fourth, Hickory, Liberty, and the rest. We would consider it an advantage to have these cars moved off the thoroughfares and onto a parking lot.

* * *

Safety Factor

Getting the cars off our streets is more than a parking solution. It also makes those streets safer. We have some streets that are becoming very narrow with cars camped on both sides. Such a one is Conewango ave. A few others have parking on only one side for this reason.

The strip of land that intrigues us in this respect is that which stretches from the sidewalk to the road. You don't have anything to say about it, but you must maintain it. You can't park a car there. You can't plant a tree or cut one down. But it is your grass to keep beautiful.

The community is interlaced with streets which could be made safer and wider if cars were moved into that curb to sidewalk area. In the business section we find Market, which could have nose-in parking, such as now is used near Pennsylvania ave. This would allow many more cars on both sides of that wide street. Fourth also has a wide expanse between curb and sidewalk. And there are many others.

This is off-street parking of a kind. It makes streets wider without the cost of paving them. It gives the motorist a few more seconds to see the child who darts from behind a fender. It leaves the street open for cleaning.

Some well kept lawn strips would lose their ascetic value (already hidden by parked cars), many poor specimens would be eliminated, and quite a few muddy bare patches would be replaced by graveled parking space.

Maybe some believe cars are less nuisance and are prettier parked on the streets. But if we are to solve this one we will have to face the fact that the answer is to move them over the curb and onto big and little lots of every description. The day of the horse and carriage in a stable several hundred feet back of a few exclusive homes is past. We live with that car today and it doesn't have the bad habits of a fancy team. You can park it right under your nose and enjoy every luscious wiff of its newness.

This is the age of rubber tires, gaudy grills, and blinding curve-arounds. We must make way for those moving and find space for those parking. It will require some face-changing, an unspared tree or two, and a few less square feet of mowing to do the job ahead.

* * *

Slum Ordinance

Warren's council now has an ordinance being written which will make it possible to tell a property owner what to do about his deteriorating building. This is due to objections raised by Conewango ave. residents in regard to a home in that neighborhood which has been neglected by the owner, they claim.

If this goes through, it can lead to some interesting developments. If anyone has the idea that this is the worst building in town they haven't had a very close look recently. Warren has some buildings that look as though they might fall into the street if a butterfly were to brush them on the wrong end. They probably are profitable to the landlords, but as contributions to Warren's general appearance and value they would do better if a strong wind took a hand.

We think the slum law is a good one and we will be very happy to point out several potential violations if enforcing officials are truly interested.

Depend On Hope -- Or Count On Help?

If fire or windstorm should strike your home.....
if a split second auto accident should involve you in a law suit.....can you depend on immediate help? Or will you rely on the hope you can somehow meet the situation.

Talk with anyone who has faced these problems
(and there are thousands in Pennsylvania alone) and you'll know why it pays to be fully protected.

In Brief

George Eberhardt, of Warren, has been appointed by W. C. Fuellhart, Warren county civil defense director, as chairman of the Warren County Ground Observer Corps. Mr. Eberhardt will fill the position from which Gurney R. Ball, of Youngsville, has recently resigned.

Guests Of The Jamestown Falcons is the privilege granted members of the Chief Cornplanter Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The festivities will start at 6:30 p. m. on Wednesday, June 15, and boys may enter who are in uniform or display registration cards. One adult must accompany each carload of scouts. Transportation will be furnished by local units and the troop flags are requested for the parade which precedes the game.

Thirty Years Of Service to the United States Postal Department were completed on May 23 when Marshall F. Mathis, known to his many friends as "Mush," was granted his full civil service retirement. Mr. Mathis, described as the "encyclopedia" of the Warren office because of his familiarity with postal regulations, actually retired on August 11, 1954 after suffering a severe coronary attack and has been enjoying his hobbies of hunting, fishing, and photography on a full-time basis.

Specialized Training in Soil Conservation has been completed by John R. Berkebile, of the Warren County Soil Conservation Office, in a one-month session at the Coshocton Training Center, Coshocton, Ohio. Area farmers are advised that contacts can be made with the office on Wednesdays where a part-time secretary will be glad to receive messages. Mr. Berkebile will be in the office from 8 to 8:30 a. m. Mondays through Fridays.

Happy Day! Pfc. Douglas J. Flick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Flick, 300 Edgewood place, Warren, is scheduled to return to the United States for release from active duty after serving in France with the 7813th Army unit. Flick, a graduate of Warren high school, is a machinist in the unit. He completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., and has been in Europe since May, 1954.

June Inductees will leave on June 8 for New Cumberland where they will be sworn into the Army the following day. The new soldiers include the following: Lawrence E. Barger, Bacil H. Guiley, Jr., Robert E. Jones, Joseph L. Phillips, and Robert W. Townley, all of Warren; Earl D. Mott, of RD, Pleasantville; Thomas A. Stanton, North Warren; and Dorian R. Gray, RD, Warren.

Seven boys will leave on the same train for New Cumberland for pre-induction examinations. Following the physicals, the young men will return home to await further instructions.

No Hesitation At A Blinking Red Light at the intersection of East

st. and Third ave., Warren, caused an accident at 8 a. m. on Friday, May 27. Ned W. Spangler, of York, Pa., thought the light was changing green, entered the intersection, and struck a vehicle being operated by Marion S. Gay, 118 N. Carver st., Warren, inflicting $200 in damages to the Gay machine and $5 to his own. Most of the damages resulted when Gay's car was forced by the impact into a utility pole.

Fifty-One Day Camp Registrations from Brownies have been received at Girl Scout Headquarters in Warren. The total cost is $2.50 for the five days of which $1 is for transportation. A nosebag lunch must be provided by the girls for the first day but provisions will be furnished thereafter. Section Two is scheduled for June 20 through June 24 and Section One from June 27 through June 31. All sessions will be at Camp Birdsall Edey on Mondays through Fridays from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Transportation must be furnished by local units.

An Improperly Parked Truck caused $35 in damages to a vehicle owned by R. S. Holcomb, 120 Elm st., Warren, as he tried to avoid an oncoming car at 3:30 p. m. on Friday, May 27. The truck of Sidney Fox, 9 1/2 Elm, was parked at the curb on Elm with the rear extending into the traffic lane. No one was injured and the truck was not damaged.

Prepare For November! The opportunity for citizens to register in preparation for the November general election is now and will continue until October 3. Changes in party affiliation of those already registered is prohibited during this period. Those whose twenty-first birthdays fall between October 3 and the date of the general election may register before the close of the period. Don't wish you could vote — make sure that you can!

Sleeping Sickness must be striking motorists while they are traveling through Warren. For the third time in the last couple months, an accident has been caused by the driver dozing off while operating a motor vehicle. The latest, Leland C. King, 110 Water st., left Pennsylvania ave. at 1 a. m., Sunday, May 29, and struck a utility pole and speed sign. He was treated in the emergency room at the Warren General Hospital. Warren borough police arrested King for reckless driving.

Three Cars Piled Up at 2:30 p. m. on Sunday, May 29, seven miles north of Warren on Route 59 when an unidentified driver came to a sudden stop and then continued on his way. James Ferry, of Bradford, stopped quickly and avoided a collision with the car in front but was hit from behind by a vehicle being driven by Mike Crappio, also of Bradford. James Pomilio, of Kinzua, couldn't stop and rammed the rear of the Crappio machine. Damages of $350 to the Pomilio car, $50 to the Crappio machine, and $75 to the Ferry vehicle, were estimated by investigating State Police.

Community Ambassador Fund is Successful! Warren citizens and organizations should feel justly proud that the Warren Community Ambassador Fund has reached its required quota. For the first time, Warren will be represented by a teenager in Europe.

HOT STOVE ACTION

A routine meeting of the Hot Stove league was held this week, with bills totaling $1107 approved and paid. Bantam uniforms were distributed and score sheets were provided. These sheets are to be turned into the newspapers and the radio by the winning team. They also are to be filled out for the official league scorekeeper, who is Bill Oelslager.

In league play this past week the Emblem Oil beat the Warren Bank and Trust, 11 to 6, in the Bantam circuit. M. McCoy was the winning pitcher. Falvo hit two home runs and Whyte hit one for the Emblems.

In the Midget league the Craft Agency pasted the Times Mirror, 20 to 1, with Lanivitz and McIntosh the winning battery. Barry Johnson pitched the Craft Agency to an 8 to 3 victory over the Youngsville Merchants No. 2.

Clutch pitching by Lorninger gave the Seneca Lumber a close one over Youngsville No. Two, 4 to 2, in a game that was called because of darkness in the fifth. Also in the Midget circuit, the Seneca Lumber copped one from Youngsville No. One, 6 to 4, with Lorninger again on the mound, sharing the duties with Hogan. The two struck out 15 men and allowed only two hits. Pearson, Musante, Hogan, and Lorninger drove in the Seneca runs. Crappin and Carlette brought them in for Youngsville.

Additional Midget play saw the OK Service take the Mead Merchants, 21 to 7, behind the flinging of Hendrickson. Manning, Johnson, and Morgan got home runs for the winners. West hit one for the losers. Steber pitched a 27 to 4 winner for the OK Service over Walkers IXL. But the Certified Electric was undismayed by these big ones and took the OK Service, 2 to 1, with Tome throwing the slants. Home runs were slammed by Hendrickson and Tome.

In Intermediate league action the Warren Observer won a pair, defeating Sylvania, 9 to 4, and Kiwanis, 8 to 2. Tremblay and Gagliardi were the successful hurlers.

There was much Cadet league play. Loranger Plastics beat Youngsville No. Two, 15 to 6, with Nielson the winning pitcher. Cox slugged a homer for Youngsville. Kiwanis took Elmhurst, 6 to 5, with Lawton hurling. Betts Machine used Pring on the rubber to smother Cornplanter, 19 to 2. Printz Co. edged Bakers Atlantic, 9 to 8, with Lind tossing.

Elks Win And Lose

A form of mental telepathy suggests to us that the Elks baseball team defeated the Art Metals, 7 to 6, Saturday in a Penn-York league game, but who did the pitching and the hitting we have not the slightest idea. Box scores and news releases apparently are a lost art. On Sunday the boys lost a close one to Salamanca, 3 to 2. Fred Gray was the losing pitcher, though he allowed only three hits....we guess.

It probably simmers down to the obvious conclusion that if the mouse won't come to the mountain the mountain will have to find himself a boy. And that will happen about next week when the Observer will have a leg man in the sports department to hound baseball managers and related dignitaries of the sports world.

Golf Tournaments

It was a week of much golf competition. The annual Memorial Day two-ball foursome tournament was held at the Conewango Valley Country Club, Phil Prichard and Mrs. Frederick Printz winning with a net 67. Mrs. J. L. Blair and William Rice were second with 68, and third at 69 were Mrs. Robert Voigt and Chuck Blackman.

Rabbits Abound In Good Food

A Cover

Robert Slike, President of the McKean County (Pa.) Beagle Club, tells in the May issue of Hounds and Hunting what it takes to produce cottontail rabbits. In his article "McKean County Story" Slike says:

"...In the fall of '48 the club purchased 700 acres situated on a high plateau at Mt. Alton, fourteen miles south of Bradford. About 150 acres of old fields, briar patches and run-down orchards with a small building beside a gushing spring ... gave members something to develop. Over 500 acres were second growth hardwood timber which at one time, according to old-timers, abounded with cottontails and snowshoe hares.

"The first two things we did were to buy hay and to release twelve dozen cottontails. Next we started a crew of woodcutters harvesting charcoal and pulpwood, which gave us better cover. In '49 and '50 we planted evergreens, multiflora rose, some farm crops and released 1200 rabbits. In 1951 we held our first licensed trial. Though we were not ready it was the best move we ever made, for we found that after extensive stocking and booster shots of a dozen or two just before trials we still didn't have enough rabbits to conduct successful events.

"We realized after that first trial we were not keeping rabbits despite all our efforts and money spent. So we invited Roger M. Latham, Chief of the Game Commission wildlife research division, to visit our club and see if he could tell us what was wrong. He, Glen Bowers and several members of the Game Commission went over the area. They complimented our efforts but told us we had done the right things in the wrong places. Through their instructions, advice and experience they laid out a program which we have followed ever since with good results.

"For three years now, we haven't bought any rabbits, and we have proven conclusively that planting, fertilizing, cutting and planning are far superior to restocking."

Late '54 Fawn Retains Spots

Game Protector Stephen A. Kish, Lackawanna County, reports: "Mr. McClintock of Bear Lake has a number of deer visit his lawn for handouts of apples and corn. They have become quite tame. About the middle of April he told me about a fawn that was born last October and still carried its spots. Later the fawn appeared with several other deer. There was no mistake about it, the fawn was still spotted and quite small."

Commission Has New Accounting Machine

A punch card accounting system (IBM) was installed in the Game Commission's Harrisburg Office early this year. The mechanical genius has already surpassed expectations in turning out records, reports, payrolls and other essential accounting and statistical information.

Beginning with the agency's fiscal year, June 1, additional cost figures on most of the Commission's operations will be available. Such information will prove valuable in appraising the various management practices employed to improve hunting and trapping in Pennsylvania.

Through this system of obtaining answers the headquarters accounting staff has been relieved of many time-consuming tasks formerly done manually. Also, the machine now releases division office personnel of the preparation of tedious reports and detailed clerical work, allowing more attention to important field operations.

Commission employees whose work has been absorbed by the new accounting machine were trained to operate it. The wildlife authorities are convinced this piece of versatile equipment has great potentialities as a tool through which many desirable reports may later be obtained as conditions require.

Spring Dog Trouble

Game Protector Paul Glenny, who resides in Gettysburg, says, "The mild winter in this section of the Commonwealth helped wild game to come through in fine condition. Several coveys of quail survived the cold months in good fashion. Their cheery 'bobwhite' calls, heard throughout the area this spring, lend an encouraging note to the hope for more 'partridges'."

"Rabbits are showing up in goodly numbers but their struggle for survival is made more difficult by large numbers of dogs running at large and digging out nests and destroying young. Complaints relative to dogs chasing and destroying game seem more prevalent each spring."

Democrats Must Do Something

By Thomas L. Stokes

WASHINGTON. -- Democrats and others who may be interested follow Adlai Stevenson here and there in the newspapers and over the radio and television, reading and listening to what he says and seeing his photograph and his image. Recently, it was set against the bizarre and weird background of Africa.

But they hardly ever read about him being in Washington, the political Capital of the country, where at the moment his party happens to be in control of Congress and where you might think he would be called in occasionally for consultation since the record on which Democrats must run next year is being made in Congress. Besides, he is the party's titular leader and its most recent candidate for President.

All of which points up a situation which is not new, and which is typical of the schisms in both parties. Just now a big element of the Democratic party is beginning to chafe under it, as has a big element of the Republican party in the past when the GOP was out of power.

During the 20 years that Republicans were out of power, their party in Congress was controlled and managed largely by Midwest conservatives -- for a long time, as we recall, under the leadership of the late Senator Taft.

Similarly, the Democratic party in Congress is controlled and managed by its Southern wing.

Usually the Southerners are dominant in control of the party in Congress. That is nothing new. But, in the 20 years up to 1953, the party leader was in the White House, and the rank-and-file of the party all over the country could look to him to push their interests in Congress and to keep somewhat of a check on the Southerners who enjoy the chief posts of power because of the seniority rule.

But, now for the first time in 20 years, the non-South wing of the Democratic party does not have a leader in the White House to protect its interests. The party leader to whom they would naturally look, Adlai Stevenson, is on the "outside" and is not invited in to speak for the great rank-and-file of the party whom he comes much closer to representing than the little handful of Southern leaders here.

Party policy is being directed and the party record is being made largely by the Southern leadership which represents a minority, both geographically and numerically, of the party.

Now, facing a Presidentialial election for the first time in 20 years without a President and party leader in the White House, Democrats from other parts of the country in Congress are beginning to wake up suddenly to what control of party policy and the record by the Southern minority in Congress could mean in terms of the election in their sections.

Their frustration is beginning to express itself privately against the Southern party leadership and that may break out into the open in the near future. Nor is their growing resentment assuaged any by the spectacle of the party's National Chairman, Paul H. Butler, devoting himself so assiduously to appeasing Southern party leaders who bolted the party in 1952.

They point out that it won't be the South where the 1956 election will be won. It must be won in other parts of the country. On that general thesis a Northern Democratic leader in Congress who hitherto has been tolerant of the Southern leadership and its problems and overly cooperative in working with the Southerners delivered himself of his discontent:

"We've got to get something done in Congress about issues which face us in our part of the country -- schools, minimum wage increase, housing, and roads, too, of course. Nor can we afford to toy with the segregation issue. We have Negro voters who are the balance of power. I recognize the problems of the South and of the Southern leaders -- but the Supreme Court has spoken, and we can't wait around. We'd better do some of the things that folks in our sections need and not spend so much time on things like a natural gas bill to remove Federal protection from the consumers."

"Our party had better start to make a record in Congress -- for we control it and will be held responsible, just as former Presi-

Something of Value

We just read a book by that name. It was written by Robert Ruark, the columnist, who went abounding in Africa and came home loaded with a raw picture which he placed on paper. Africa as it goes through the evolution of changing from the primitive of centuries to this so modern world, obviously must have its very raw spots. And we believe they may be best told in such a manner. But is there a moral person on that continent?

We have read few books that have depressed us more. Not because of the African situation which we recognize and stand ready to accept as one of the world's major problems, but because of the effect such books must have on young readers. In fact, on rationalizing readers of all ages.

Why the rough tough African story cannot be told without doing a Kinsey report on every man and woman involved escapes us. We also resent having main characters built up as mighty fine people, and being jolted with the revelation that their morals of the past have bordered on the shady side.

There must be some exceptions in the world, and even in Africa. If these are as few Christians in Africa as there are in this book the problem of that continent is apparent. The book hasn't one who knows what the word means.

To take a native into a bawdy house with no stinting of details, and follow with an equally descriptive account of the same fellow's wedding night might be excused as a part of the African story, though we doubt it. But why Mr. Ruark believes the reader needs to be told what happens after an American or Englishman gets to the altar we fail to get.

They talk about comics that should be kept off the stands. And we hear about books that are immoral. Here is one, being distributed by the Book of the Month Club, that in our amateur opinion reeks. Perhaps we are not up on the moderns. But if this one is approved by those who pass on books, what is to be found in the censored works? We must have some reading to do.

Also Out of the Raw

We have some wilderness of our own left in this country and occasionally you will find a man with his sleeves rolled up, clearing land, and attempting to make that land produce for him. Such is the case with Les Sheldon up Kinzua way.

Les just before the war chopped down many trees, cleared much brush, and planted grass. He was making a golf course. Then the big guns popped and Les was off with a big share of us for a bit of shooting. Meanwhile, nature moved in again.

Now Les has started to fight back. Grass is growing, brush is melting away, and eventually he WARREN BOY CHOIR will present a concert in the Beaty Junior high school auditorium on June 14 and 15 under the direction of Byron Swanson. Tickets may be purchased from choir members, Montgomery-Ward store, Penn Restaurant, and Williams' Charcoal stand.

The program, tentatively arranged, is as follows: PART I: The boys, robed in crimson-red gowns with gold sashes on a stage which features an illuminated cross, will portray the life of Christ in music. PART II: The "Parade of Stars" which will include boys with high hopes, eager ambitions, and who love to sing and act. PART III: Senior boys and unchanged voices singing many numbers of a lighter type of music.

The program promises to be one of the best since the choir's organization in 1947. For an evening of entertainment and relaxation, attend the Warren Boy Choir concert.

Standing: Gertrude Ruhlmeyer, trustee, Kathleen Edinger, monitor, June Donovan, historian, Rosemary Brady, sentinel, Florence Cunningham, prophetess, Mary Bova, financial secretary, Fern Hesch, vice grand regent.

LEVELING OFF. After the work train comes through and rips up the rails in the middle of Warren's Fourth ave., the shovel goes to work. The expert operator scrapes the dirt into a neat pile and shovels the pile into the waiting truck. At this rate Fourth soon will have a smooth surface down its center.

UP THEY COME. The New York Central rails and ties on Fourth ave. are being removed this week by a work train and lots of helpers. The street is open to two-way traffic on the south side but the north side will be closed and used for storage and work space. Don't try to enter the avenue from the north on Liberty or Hickory sts. — it's impossible.

This note to clear up some misunderstandings: All of Fourth ave. is not being resurfaced! The rails and ties will be reset and three feet on each side of the tracks will be resurfaced by the contractors employed by the borough.

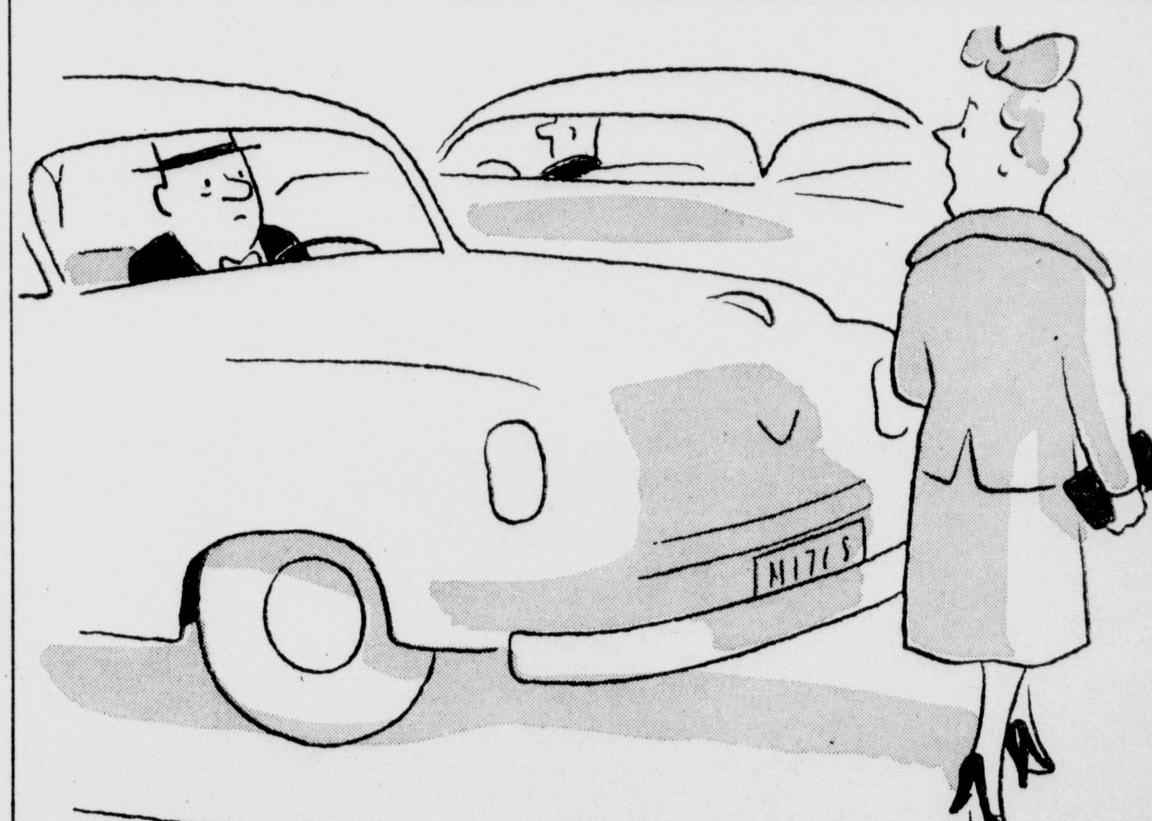

"I found I couldn't walk, so I was forced to drive."

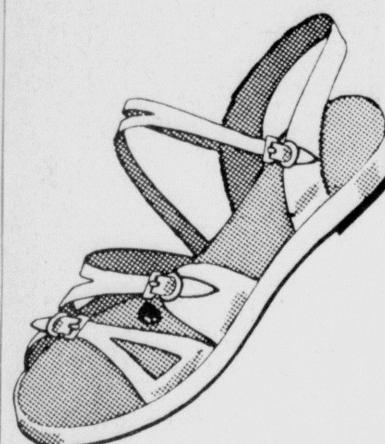

".... and this buggy has every safety feature the manufacturer could think to put in it."

"How long have you been driving... if you'll permit the complete misuse of a word."

"Are you racing your motor at me?"

Congress Try Again
Assemblyman Allen Gibson, representing Warren county, is one of the state house members whose names are on the bill which would increase the truck weight limits. This is House Bill 1288, which the last time we put our finger on it had been referred to the Committee on Motor Vehicles.

The increase would change the gross weight for tractor and single semi-trailer jobs from 45,000 to 50,000 pounds. An increase of two and a half tons. And the tractor and tandem axle semitrailers would be upped from 45,000 to 60,000, a jump of seven and a half tons.

The axle weight limit would move from 20,000 to 22,400. Smaller straight trucks also would receive increases.

On the tough side of the bill we find the tolerance reduced from five to three per cent. Penalties for overloading include mandatory unloading of weight in excess of the limit, and graduated fines that impose heavy assessments against the heavily overloaded truck.

The bill also establishes minimum horsepower requirements and strengthens present braking requirements. The fees are increased enough to bring in an estimated additional $4,500,000. every year. There is no change in the length, width, or height.

Processed Foods Expensive

Today you can buy nearly any food almost ready for serving. It is the day of pre-packaged and processed foods. It is convenient and helpful, but it may not be easier on the budget.

While the farmer receives less for his product, the food prices hold up in the stores. The reason is processed foods, say some experts. They also claim that the main reason for pre-packaging and processing food is that the margin of profit goes up as compared with bulk goods.

So, to ease up on the pocketbook, buy bulk foods. And in season the fresh ones are better and cheaper, the authorities claim.

milk as a first line food, but May and June are its peak months for production. It makes a good summer drink and can be widely used in custards and baked products. It also has many by-products, such as cheese, and it comes in a favorite dessert, ice cream. All nutritious, all tasty.

To get the most out of milk, put it in the refrigerator as soon as possible. And keep it there. Milk absorbs flavors and odors. This can be minimized by keeping the container covered. It also is wise to clean the mouth of the container before pouring milk.

Read the June issue of Consumer Reports. It will contradict all the sales talk given you against six cylinder cars in the present effort to sell eights. It has a good word for the Chevrolet, Ford, and Plymouth sixes. Better mileage, time-tested engines, low maintenance, less anti-freeze, less spark plugs, quicker heat in winter, and some other interesting reports of recently made tests. They also cost $100 less.

HOME STREET CUBS, Pack 47, presented the acts usually expected under the "Big Top" in the auditorium of their building on Thursday evening, May 26. As evidenced by this shot, the gala event was much enjoyed by Cubs and parents alike. Clowns enacted uproarious antics and vied with the balloons, hot dogs, and pop for the preferred attraction of the "greatest show on earth."

TO BE SURE that she picked the right clown, Mrs. Fred Wendelboe wiped the grease paint from her son, Douglas, before taking him home after the circus which was presented in Home Street School by Pack 47. The program was punctuated periodically by the bursting of balloons and the shrill shrieks of delighted youngsters.
